Dear Honorable Members of the Colorado State House of Representatives,

Today I vetoed House Bill 24-1008, "Wage Claims Construction Industry Contractors" at 4:15 p.m.

House Bill 24-1008 (HB24-1008) would expand general contractor accountability and liability for wage claims involving subcontractors in the construction industry. Specifically, it would hold general contractors in the construction industry liable for wages legally owed to an employee of any of its subcontractors, at any tier.

Wage theft is a deplorable crime: Not paying employees for an honest day's work is both morally wrong and against the law. The Colorado Wage Act (C.R.S. 8-4-101 et seq.) requires Colorado employers to pay employees their earned wages in a timely manner. Victims of wage theft include some of our most vulnerable workers, and ensuring that they are paid what they are owed is a moral imperative, and we must do more to prevent wage theft.

That is why during my administration we have made unprecedented efforts to crack down on wage theft and ensure that victims of wage theft receive prompt and fair restitution. To that end, I have signed into law several pieces of legislation to address wage theft, including SB22-161 (Wage Theft Employee Misclassification Enforcement), HB19-1267 (Penalties For Failure To Pay Wages), and SB23-231 (Amend Fund To Allow Payment Overdue Wage Claims). My administration also created the highly successful Strategic Wage Education with Employers Program (SWEEP), a pilot program to educate employers about inadvertent wage theft violations and provide restitution to workers, which the General Assembly made permanent in the Long Bill this year. Finally, during my administration, funding related to labor standards (including wage theft enforcement) has quadrupled.

This bill, however, would let subcontractors who fail to pay their workers off the hook, do little if anything to prevent additional wage theft, and penalize good actors who pay all their workers on time. The bill misaligns incentives for subcontractors to pay their workers by making general contractors liable and failing to require that wage theft investigations start with the offending subcontractor and work their way up (as is the law in the City and County of Denver). Instead, under the bill the general contractor — even when not at fault under any reasonable standard — would effectively pay for the same work twice (in addition to fines, penalties, and interest), raising costs.

General contractors should of course seek to use subcontractors with a history of following the law and paying all of their employees. But crafting a unique and novel joint liability mechanism for wage claims in this sector only — including in situations where the general contractor has no relationship with the responsible employer — would not punish the real wrongdoers.

Throughout the legislative process, my administration provided options to proponents and sponsors to address wage theft that would have allowed me to sign this bill. This included multiple iterations of a proposal to hold liable general contractors who are at fault for wage theft, such as those who were negligent or should have known a subcontractor was committing wage theft. In addition, I proposed additional measures to adjudicate claims more quickly and provide rapid restitution to wage theft victims. Unfortunately, proponents and sponsors were unwilling to entertain more targeted measures along these lines. I remain open to a more effective approach to the specific issue of joint liability in the construction industry, as well as wage theft in general. To that end, in addition to the steps outlined above that my administration has already taken to address wage theft, I am directing the Department of Labor and Employment to work with stakeholders on all sides to further explore legislative and budgetary proposals to address wage theft, and in particular, wage theft impacting subcontractors, so that victims of wage theft receive prompt and fair restitution as well as to prevent and disincentivize this crime in the first place, and to provide recommendations within 60 days.

Wage theft is wrong, but punishment for any crime should focus on the wrongdoers. For the above reason, HB24-1008 is disapproved and vetoed.

The Honorable Colorado General Assembly
The 74th General Assembly
Second Regular Session

Dear Honorable Members of the Colorado House of Representatives,

Today I vetoed House Bill 24-1260 (Prohibition Against Employee Discipline) at 4:18 p.m.

HB24-1260 stipulates that, with certain exceptions, an employer shall not subject or threaten to subject an employee to discipline, discharge, or an adverse employment action on account of the employee's refusal to attend or participate in an employer-sponsored meeting concerning religious or political matters or for declining to listen to speech or view religious or political communications from the employer or the agent, representative, or designee of the employer.

While I understand and agree with many of the sponsors' commendable goals, and look forward to helping achieve them, I have significant concerns with the legislation's broad and uncertain implications for employers and employees, as well as legal concerns.

The bill's definitions of "political matters" and "religious matters" are so broad that they are unworkable and would result in unintended consequences for employers and employees alike. While the bill does include certain limited exceptions, I am concerned that even the exceptions will cause confusion and are insufficient in addressing employers' day-to-day operational needs. Moreover, the breadth of the definitions could chill free speech.

These broad definitions and narrow exemptions would put employers in the impossible position of determining when any form of speech or communication is legally protected political or religious speech. For example, employers might wish to discuss current regulations or legislation with their workers to foster conversation among a team about the impact of such legislation on the business, economy, or industry, and the exemption for information "necessary to their job duties" is unworkable. Similarly, under the legislation, "political matters" encompasses "the decision to join or support any nonprofit organization established for charitable or community welfare purposes." Coloradans across the state benefit from community and social engagement often spurred from exposure by an employer. Discouraging or chilling employers from holding meetings meant to shine light on volunteer opportunities that bolster our community is not in line with the Colorado for All that my administration is focused on creating. In short, the remedy here is much broader than the problem itself.

I believe that no employee should be forced to attend a meeting that focuses on the negative aspects of union participation, and would have supported legislation narrowed to that extent. While our Office consistently requested that sponsors narrow the scope of this legislation to focus on a more manageable and neutral definition of coercive captive audience meetings, these amendments were rejected. A narrower definition would be less ambiguous for both employers and employees, and I would sign such legislation.

Further, Colorado workers and unions continue to maintain protections under the National Labor Relations Act and a wide host of Colorado specific labor laws. I would welcome codifying federal labor protection in this area to ensure Colorado workers continue to be covered despite any changes in the federal landscape.

Unfortunately, as presented to me in its final form, this legislation is too broad and too ambiguous to apply uniformly and fairly, leading to unintended consequences. For the above reasons, HB24-1260 is disapproved and vetoed.

Sincerely,

Dear Honorable Members of the Colorado State House of Representatives:

Today, I vetoed House Bill 24-1307, "HVAC Improvements for Public Schools" at 4:21 p.m.

Every Colorado student should be able to attend school in a healthy and safe environment. House Bill 24-1307 ("HB24-1307") imposes additional requirements - beyond those required by the federal government - on school districts and charter schools to access federal funds such as the Infrastructure Investment and Jobs Act (IIJA) and Inflation Reduction Act (IRA) to improve HVAC systems in schools. Schools and school districts that choose to access available federal funds for this purpose would be required to undergo onerous assessment and installation requirements using a certified contractor list established by the Colorado Department of Labor and Employment above and beyond federal requirements for these funds.

While the bill has the commendable objective of making Colorado applications for federal HVAC funds that they already qualify for more competitive and ensuring strong labor standards, it unfortunately does create roadblocks for school districts—especially those in rural Colorado—to access IIJA and IRA dollars, potentially decreasing the likelihood of schools choosing to apply for federal HVAC dollars. The certified contractor requirements are particularly challenging for our rural school districts, who already have a difficult time finding labor for capital projects. For example, the Colorado Certified Contractor list does not show any certified electrical or plumbing contractors located in rural communities like Alamosa, Archuleta, Baca, Chaffee, Conejos, Costilla, Custer, Huerfano, Logan, Morgan, Phillips, Saguache, San Miguel, Sedgwick, Washington, and Yuma counties. To be in compliance with this bill, school districts in rural counties would need to find labor outside of their communities, which can drive up costs and delay projects. This bill exempts school districts from required use of the certified contractor list if they enter into a project labor agreement which may be challenging or unrealistic for a small rural local school district or community to comply with. The pressure of increased costs and administrative difficulties could cause schools to either not proceed with needed facility improvements or may cause schools to cut educationally valuable features of their facilities due to the enhanced costs and difficulty of HVAC improvements.

This bill requires schools to follow a series of stringent requirements if they accept federal dollars that go above and beyond the federal requirements for use of these funds. This includes provisions as specific as requiring all nurses' offices and areas in schools be negative pressure with no exceptions, requiring periodic inspections every five years whether those are needed or necessary and without any additional resources to perform these inspections, and requiring qualified personnel to recommend additional maintenance, replacements, or upgrades to HVAC systems in an assessment report without providing the additional resources needed for the replacements and upgrades.

HB 24-1307 also offers no additional funds for technical assistance to schools to meet its requirements, except to refer them to support provided by the Governor's Office through the IIJA Cash Fund, which schools are already eligible for. The technical requirements of this bill, however, combined with the call-out of the Cash Fund as the only state support to meet these requirements sets up an expectation for services and support that will necessitate a shift of resources from supporting local governments and Tribes broadly focused on the priority topics of the Cash Fund, to schools, narrowly focused on HVAC and could necessitate reducing resources available to local governments and Tribes for the original intent of the IIJA Cash Fund.

Through the process, our office and school districts offered feedback on how to ensure the provisions of this bill did not create additional burdens or impede schools' ability to apply for funds while ensuring strong labor standards — including proposed amendment language to create a waiver exemption for schools and school districts that made a good faith effort to meet the labor standards within a reasonable timeframe. Unfortunately, we could not reach consensus on the final bill language.

My administration remains committed to working closely with labor and conservation organizations to ensure schools and school districts are aware of the critical federal HVAC funds available to them through the IIJA and IRA and have the support and technical assistance they need to apply for those funds competitively, and we will be looking at what administrative actions we can take as well as what statutory adjustments we can make next year to be as competitive as possible. Therefore, I am directing my Governor's Office of Economic Recovery to work with schools and third-party partners to draw down federal funding to support HVAC improvements. Imposing new standards and prescriptive assessment requirements that exceed what is already required of schools to access these federal HVAC dollars will only make it harder to achieve this goal, and make it less likely that Colorado schools will benefit from these critical federal infrastructure dollars. I remain aligned with the goals of the proponents and sponsors of the bill and would welcome conversations on ways to continue to advance our shared objectives.

For the above reasons, HB 24-1307 is disapproved and vetoed.

Sincerely,

Dear Honorable Members of the Colorado State House of Representatives,

Today, I vetoed House Bill 24-1010, "Insurance Coverage for Provider-Administered Drugs" at 4:24 p.m.

House Bill 24-1010 ("HB24-1010") regulates health insurer practices under certain circumstances regarding complex drugs administered in a provider's office. These practices are known as "white bagging" and generally direct patients to use in-network specialty pharmacies to receive coverage.

While I appreciate the thoughtful efforts intended to narrow the scope of the legislation, I am concerned that amid the high and rising cost of prescription drugs, this legislation removes an important way to negotiate lower costs for Coloradans, and may subject families to increasing premiums. I recognize that white bagging arose to help reduce the rising cost of specialty drugs through negotiated pricing, an issue on which my Administration continues to offer solutions, including through drug importation and the Prescription Drug Affordability Board. Above and beyond our own work, it's very important to saving people money on healthcare that carriers and pharmacy benefit managers ("PBMs") retain their full ability to negotiate with manufacturers on high cost prescription drugs. I will continue to do all I can to reduce the impact of outrageously priced prescription drugs on Coloradans who need them while preserving timely, quality access to care.

I am sensitive to the safety concerns raised by proponents. However, I am uncomfortable with the lack of sufficient evidence to evaluate the impact of this legislation on Coloradans. There was no significant research nor non-anecdotal evidence presented during this process to support this bill as a targeted solution to these claims. Furthermore, I recognize the complex issues pertaining to vertical integration of both carriers, pharmacies, and PBMs as well as providers, pharmacies, and wholesalers that were raised in this legislative debate. Unfortunately, there were no guardrails incorporated to ensure actors on both sides pass along savings from negotiations to consumers.

Senate amendments were intended to apply the legislation only to specific, narrow instances where patients are most at risk. Unfortunately, in practice, these amendments did not significantly change the impact of the bill because providers still maintain total discretion to apply the parameters of when the practice is allowed without requiring documentation or evidence to support their decision. As a result, the impact of the added language is no different from the introduced application of the bill.

The Division of Insurance also sought amendments to limit drug price inflation and subsequent premium impacts on Coloradans, such as ensuring that reimbursement for drugs administered in a provider's office is consistent with the reimbursement rate for the same drug at a specialty pharmacy. Unfortunately, these amendments were rejected. With no transparency into the impact this legislation would have had on the health care market, patient access, out of pocket costs for patients, and premiums, I cannot sign the bill into law.

I remain open to an approach that would demonstrably improve patient care, reduce drug waste, save people money, and protect Coloradans from the high cost of specialty drugs. A future bill, supported with actuarial evidence of savings implications for patients and focused on patient safety, may be a favorable path forward on this issue. Those who need provider-administered drugs deserve prompt access to affordable care, and I look forward to future efforts that center Coloradans in this conversation.

For the above reasons, HB24-1010 is disapproved and vetoed.

Dear Honorable Members of the Colorado State House of Representatives,

Today, I vetoed House Bill 24-1080, "Concerning Requirements for Youth Sports Personnel that Improve the Safety of the Participants," at 4:27 p.m.

Supporting and protecting children, youth and families has always been a cornerstone of my administration. I was pleased to see Senate Bill 24-113, "Concerning Measures to Make Youth Sports Safer" ("SB24-113"), also moving through the legislative process, and have signed that bill today. SB24-113 requires employed and volunteer coaches to complete mandatory reporting training, creates guidance around abuse training, establishes reasonable expectations for background checks, requires the adoption and adherence of a code of conduct, and directs the Attorney General's Office to develop a notice of requirements to be shared with impacted organizations for their use. SB24-113 was able to achieve a better balance of realistic employer expectations driven by input from the impacted organizations, which is why I signed that bill today.

We need to do more to keep children safe in our communities. However, House Bill 24-1080 (HB24-1080) conflicts with SB24-113 in important ways, namely by placing unrealistic and counterproductive expectations and undue burden on coaches and chaperones - many of whom are volunteers or family members - of youth sports organizations and parks and recreation districts relating to first aid training and background checks. HB24-1080 and SB24-113 create different requirements for background checks and, to my knowledge, there was no intentional effort to align or merge the two conflicting bills throughout the legislative process. Signing both bills would both confuse and frustrate leagues and coaches attempting to comply with new state policy and create different legal expectations for the same organizations.

As passed, HB24-1080 is an unfunded mandate that would require youth sports organizations and local parks and recreation districts to ensure a staff member at each event has cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) and artificial external defibrillator (AED) training, even if there are no AEDs on site. Additionally, the bill requires current and prospective chaperones and coaches to undergo background checks every three years. For those who have spent more than 180 days out of the country in the past ten years, those individuals would be required to complete an international background check as well.

While I understand and share the goals of the sponsors to ensure all kids are safe when participating in youth sports, I remain deeply concerned about how the language in HB24-1080 would have unintended negative consequences on many of Colorado's youth sports organizations and participants, making it more difficult for them to recruit volunteers or operate at all. These are small business, non-profit, and local government organizations that operate on limited resources. Imposing costs related to background checks and required training for equipment they may not even have on these organizations as written in this bill could force them to cut back on sports programming, ultimately harming Colorado youth in every community. Comparatively and to help put this in perspective, the expectations around background checks for coaches and chaperones under this bill would be more onerous than what we currently have in place for early childhood educators and teachers.

The bill's ambiguous language around new mandates creates uncertainty for these organizations, which may result in increased litigation risk. As written, the bill is unclear as to when a parent would be considered a "chaperone" or "volunteer." This would lead to unexpected outcomes. For example, without a clear exclusion for family members, a parent or guardian who offers volunteer support for overnight travel, or to accompany their child, would be required to meet the background check requirement. Further, the bill lacks the policies and procedures required by the FBI for the release of criminal records maintained at the international level. Without this language in statute, the requirement in HB 24-1080 for a potential coach or chaperone to get an international background check is unworkable.

I do not believe the impacted organizations and participating families had a meaningful opportunity to help shape the bill during the legislative session. While our Office and impacted organizations attempted to amend the bill to eliminate ambiguity, support implementation, and reduce litigation risk as it moved throughout the process, these efforts were largely rebuffed by bill sponsors.

For the above reasons, HB24-1080 is disapproved and vetoed.

Sincerely,

Dear Honorable Members of the Colorado State House of Representatives:

Today I signed into law House Bill 24-1121, "Consumer Right to Repair Digital Electronic Equipment". This bill builds upon Colorado's right-to-repair statutes, including the first in the nation law for agricultural equipment, to include most digital electronic equipment.

I strongly support the right-to-repair for consumers, and commend the sponsors and proponents for their effects on this legislation. This bill is one of the most expansive right-to-repair bills in the country, building on our work in recent legislative sessions. This bill takes effect on January 1, 2026, and I encourage stakeholders to continue conversations in the interim to ensure that the full list of exclusions is appropriate and exhaustive, and take into consideration concerns that were raised during the process.

I thank the sponsors and proponents for brining this legislation forward.

Sincerely,

Dear Honorable Members of the Colorado House of Representatives:

Today I signed into law House Bill 24-1259, "Price Gouging in Rent Declared Disaster." This bill provides protections for renters from being taken advantage of excessive rent increases in an area affected by a declared emergency.

This law makes it a deceptive trade practice to engage on price gouging in rent during a disaster declaration specifically declaring a material decrease in residential housing units. This law also preserves the ability of Presidents and Governors to tailor future disaster declarations to the particular disaster at hand without automatic invocation of the authority granted in this bill or other bills. Therefore, a national emergency declared by the President of the United States pursuant to the National Emergencies Act or a disaster emergency declared by the Governor of Colorado pursuant to C.R.S. § 24-33.5-704(4) must specifically include a declaration that the disaster results in "a material decrease in residential housing units" for this law to be triggered.

I thank the sponsors and proponents for bringing this legislation forward, and for working with our administration on this important issue.

Sincerely,

Dear Honorable Members of the Colorado General Assembly,

Today, I signed into law House Bill 24-1323 (HB24-1323), "School Graduation Attire."

This bill allows students to wear objects of cultural or religious significance as an adornment at a graduation ceremony, with certain exceptions. I appreciate this policy and support the sponsors' reinforcement of cultural and religious freedom. However, there has been a concerning rise in the number of bills this session - including HB24-1323 - that aim to prevent any school from ever seeking a waiver from the State Board of Education in relation to the bill's provisions.

It is important to note that a school seeking a waiver as part of the State Board of Education process is not absolved or exempt from abiding by the intent of the law in question. Instead, a school must demonstrate a reasonable alternative for accomplishing a piece of legislation's core objectives. Any waiver that a school or district seeks is required to go though a multistage review process that involves approval by the local school board, the Colorado Department of Education, and the State Board of Education. If any one of those entities does not feel like the replacement plan offered by the school is sufficient, they can either reject it or tell the school to go back to the drawing board.

As someone who believes strongly in innovation and local control in education, I do not feel it wise to statutorily prohibit alternative approaches that schools may use for accomplishing any piece of legislation's core objectives. This concern has nothing to do with the specific topic of this or any other particular bill. Instead, it has to do with the harmful, more generalized precedent I believe we are setting with prohibiting waivers.

I encourage the General Assembly yo refrain from continuing this concerning trend, and will not look favorably on bills that prevent waivers in the future.

Sincerely,

Dear Honorable Members of the Colorado State House of Representatives,

Today, I and Proud to sign into law House Bill 24-1038 (HB24-1038), "Concerning Addressing the High-Acuity Crisis for Children and Youth in Need of Residential Care."

I am signing this bill today to provide immediate support and resources to our state and local leaders who fight day in and day out on behalf of children and families across Colorado. HB24-1038 is the final result of two years of stakeholder meetings involving discussion, collaboration, and planning with representatives from hospitals, providers, counties, families, the advocacy community, the General Assembly and state agencies. This bill provides millions f dollars in investments for children and youth in need of acute behavioral health services, and takes the initial steps as laid out in Colorado's Children and Youth Behavioral Health Implementation Plan. It is directly responsive to challenges associated with providing children the right treatment in the right place, and will support these young Coloradans living with complex behavioral health needs.

In the final days of the legislative session, the Senate Appropriations Committee added an amendment to HB24-1038 with substantive policy implications and potential fiscal implications. This amendment directs the Department of Health Care Policy & Financing (HCPF) to establish leadership and implementation teams that are responsible for the development, "decision-making," and "fiscal oversight" of the system of care for children and youth. These teams would be comprised of a majority of non-state entities, including local government representatives and providers.

According to federal law, however, HCPF as Colorado's Medicaid agency, may not delegate its decision-making authority over the State's Medicaid plan. The General Assembly is prevented by federal law from reassigning authorities reserved to the executive branch to unelected, self-appointed stakeholders; this bill does not specifically assign this operational authority to any entity other than HCPF. Moreover, adding layers of bureaucracy limits the ability of agencies of serve Colorado effectively and efficiently, potentially slowing the delivery of care the families. To that end, those provisions may only be implemented in a way that does not run afoul of Colorado's obligations under federal law and does not impugn upon the use of executive authority to implement this law.

I understand that the important work of achieving behavioral health systems change cannot be accomplished alone. In fact, after assuming the Governor's Office in 2019, among our first administrative actions was to create the Behavioral Health Implementation Plan, which are currently underway.

This bill is a priority for our administration, and I am grateful for the leadership from HCPF, the Department of Human Services, and the Behavioral Health Administration for engaging local leaders and bringing this critical piece of legislation forward. I am equally grateful for the ongoing partnership with the bill sponsors and local leaders and we implement this bill and continue forward with our next step to help Colorado children and families. I challenge us all - state agencies, local governments, hospitals, providers, advocates, and members of the General Assembly - to work collaboratively, and in earnest, toward our shared goal of building robust behavioral health services for children and youth across Colorado.

Sincerely,

Dear Honorable Members of the Colorado General Assembly:

Today, I signed House Bill 24-1136, "Concerning Measures to Encourage Healthier Social Media Use by Youth." The bill provides for a resource bank managed by the Department of Education ("CDE") that will support better-informed use of social media and directs social media platforms to push notifications to juvenile users under certain circumstances.

Providing our community and parents in particular with resources to help understand the positive and negative impact of social media use by children is an important goal and one my administration is proud to support. I am eager for CDE to work with a diverse set of stakeholders to create and maintain this free resource bank, for education providers, parents, students, and the community, that contains evidence-based information about the mental and physical health impacts of social media use by youth by July 1, 2025.

Additionally, I appreciate that the bill provides CDE the authority to support the development and implementation of programs that address social media's impact on youth mental health, including health education and student wellness programs.

While I support most sections of the bill, I have concerns about provisions requiring social media platforms to display state-specific "pop-ups," which is not the right approach to solving our youth mental health crisis. Colorado alone cannot regulate the internet, and a heavy-handed approach without flexibility will only discourage innovation and potentially prevent new entrants into Colorado.

I appreciate the proponents' and sponsors' willingness to incorporate an alternative path for platforms that would instead require them to operate within guidelines established by the Office of Information Technology ("OIT"). As part of this work, OIT and the Colorado Department of Public Health & Environment ("CDPHE") will work with a wide range of impacted stakeholders. This alternative will ensure that rules governing the way platforms serve children can keep pace with innovations in this rapidly evolving sector, and are not overly burdensome on users or entrants to the technology space.

I appreciate the sponsors' goal to prioritize youth wellness in Colorado, and particularly that they prioritized a resource bank that will provide needed information to parents, students, and communities for how to keep kids healthy and safe. While I remain steadfast in my belief that a state-by-state approach to internet regulation is not as effective as federal action, I encourage OIT and CDPHE to establish standards that remain true to the spirit of this bill while providing companies, parents, and children with latitude to innovate new ways to keep youth informed about the opportunities and dangers of out online world.

Dear Honorable Members of the Colorado State House of Representatives:

Today I signed into law HB24-1351, "Sunset Division Banking & Board." This bill implements the recommendations in the 2023 sunset report by the Department of Regulatory Agencies (DORA) for the Division of Banking & the State Banking Board.

This is critical, must-pass legislation to ensure the continued functioning of a major state regulatory body, The Division of Banking protects the public interest and preserves public trust in the Colorado banking industry through its essential regulatory functions.

Each year, DORA issues several sunset review reports, which evaluate key functions of state government to make recommendations based on statutory criteria on both their continuation and how they might be improved, consistent with the least restrictive form of regulation. This year, the sunset report recommended that credit unions ne authorized to purchase the assets and liabilities of state-chartered banks, along with several other recommendations - all of which my administration has championed employee and customer ownership models including employee stock ownership plans (ESOPs), co operatives, and credit unions.

Unfortunately, while HB24-1351 extends the Banking Division's work through 2033 and implements other recommendations from the sunset report, the final version omits the above-mentioned recommendation regarding credit unions. I expect and encourage the General Assembly to act on a stand-alone bill on this topic during the 2025 legislative session, and I expect both members and stakeholders to work during the interim find a path forward. To that end, I am directing my office DORA to convene interested parties in the coming months to discuss this policy and other strategies to keep the strategies to keep the state charter competitive among the dual charter system of financial institutions and facilitate agreement on recommendations for future legislation.

I thank the sponsors and proponents for bringing this legislation forward.
